

DAILY GRAPHIC REVIEW OF NEWS EVENTS

NO TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT—Bill Hart, Wild West screen hero, stopped shooting once long enough to pour a "dish of tea" for Friend Wife, who was Winifred Westover. Later, she says, he poured vials of wrath on her and she's going to sue for divorce. He says the picture shows chivalry he always practiced at home. (Int'l News Reel.)

THEIR EXCELLENCIES, LORD AND LADY READING, at Vice Regal Lodge, Simla, India. Before becoming Viceroy Lord Reading was British Ambassador to Washington. (Int'l News Reel.)

GILBERT C. ROE (left), New York attorney, appointed by Senate Manufactures Committee to handle Federal gasoline investigation. Since probe opened gasoline dropped three cents a gallon.

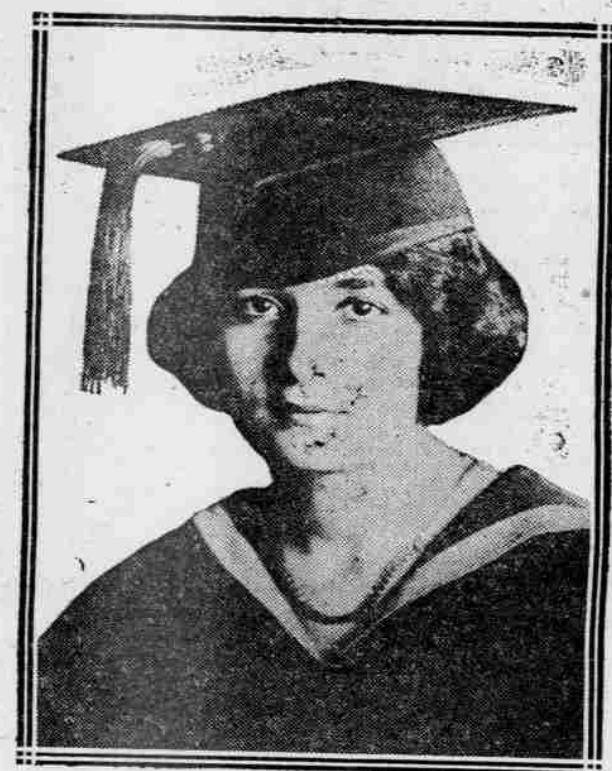

HER OWN SKIN MENDS ARM of Marie "Peggy" Beal (right), slayer of Frank Warren Anderson, her "perfect lover," in Kansas City. Scores offered skin in the grafting operation.

OFF COMES MADAM'S TOE—According to Dr. J. J. Monahan, of Chicago, American women's craze for narrow shoes leads them to have little toe amputated. Photograph shows Margaret A. Schrellber, of Chicago, undergoing operation, and (left to right) Dr. Monahan, Dr. McDonald and Dr. Lee Wilms. (Int'l News Reel.)

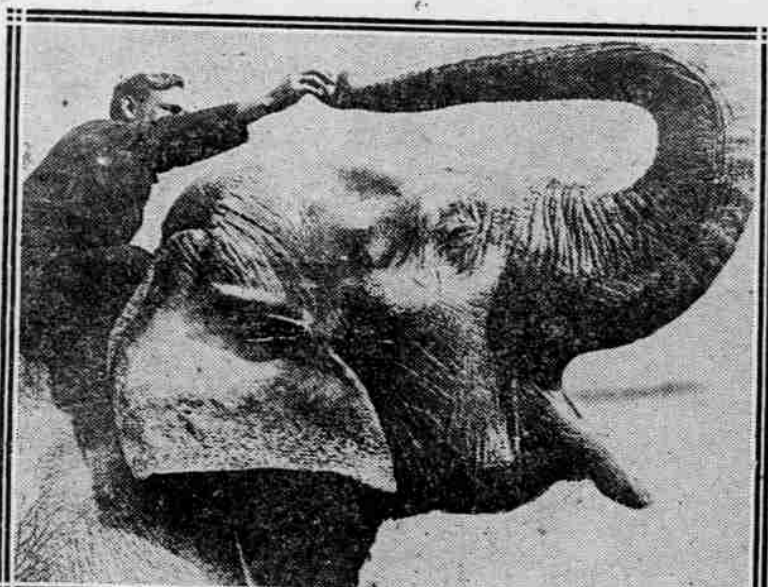

ON COMPLAINT of his wife, who was known on screen as Miriam Nesbitt (above), Marc McDermitt (inset), English actor who made hit in film with Dustin Farnum, was put in jail in New York for failure to pay alimony. She says she's penniless while he writes love letters to Helen Gilmore, actress in "The Deceivers" company. She says McDermitt receives $600 a week. (N. Y. A.)

"THEY CALL ME 'THE GIRL WITH THE MARBLE HEART'" says pretty Sally Bejain, of Roxbury, Mass., "and marble I will remain until I meet my ideal." She appeared in court to prosecute John Torjian, who is one of twenty, she alleges, to annoy her with their attentions. (Int'l News Reel.)

ATHLETICS WON FOR HER, SHE SAYS—Gladys Walton, screen actress, says disobedience of mother's orders against skating, swimming, surf board riding and other sports fitted her for stardom. (N.Y.A.)

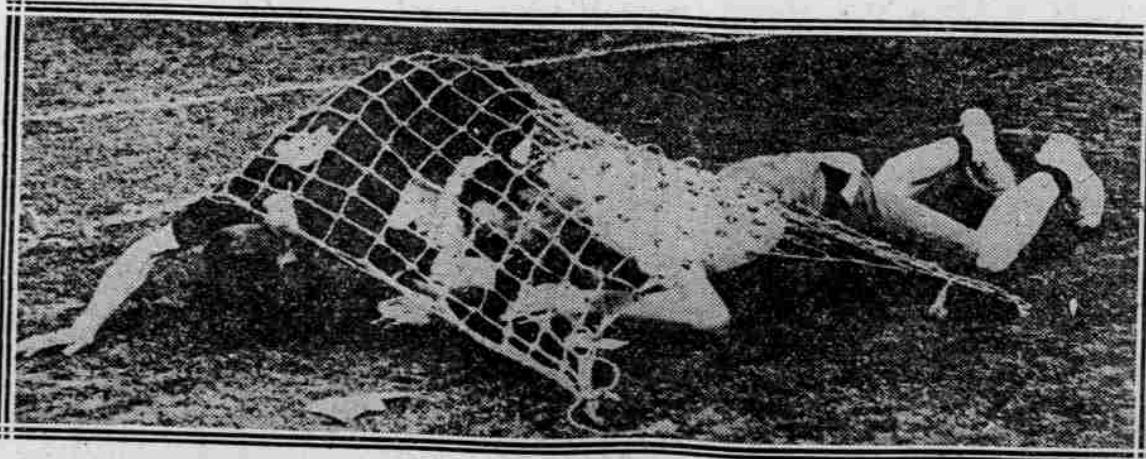

SYED ALL, Indian mahout, had to travel 8,000 miles to London Zoo to cure Indragra, giant elephant, of nervousness that made her dangerous. He soon won the beast's confidence and she treats him in docile fashion. (Int'l News Reel.)

UNHAPPY—Well, not exactly, but even May Irwin, comedienne, doesn't seem to cheer Henry Ford after he got stuck in the mud in a Ford at Watertown, N. Y. (N. Y. A.)

LORD AND LADY AUCKLAND, of England, spending the Summer at Southampton, Long Island, U. S. A. (Int'l News Reel.)

STRENUOUS EXERCISES marked the Berkshire Police Sports at Sandhurst, Eng., Military College. (Int'l News Reel.)

"BIRD" ON A STEED—Tony Duke, little son of Angie B. Duke, astride his favorite turkey gobbler, a stone one, on the Duke estate at Southampton, L. I. (Int'l News Reel.)

Copyright, 1928, International News Service